It comprises components such as cluster study, self-study, library study, and projects. Students have the flexibility to opt out in the first year, receiving a certificate, or in the second year, earning a diploma. Those who complete the third year will be awarded a certificate equivalent to a degree. Notably, the college takes pride in being a pioneer, as the UGC has approved two parallel degree courses. The student intake for this course is limited to 30. Introduced in 2018, this course has gained popularity due to the inclusion of academic tours to historical places and Art galleries which are built into academics.
